It takes a majority in Senate AND House to reject electors.

This is not a path to victory, it's just a dead end for us to chase.

State legislatures, Pence, and revolution are our remaining paths to victory.

Well, but it is a good distraction for the enemy. If Pence throws the fraudulent votes out, there is no need for objection. It may not be fully legal by Pence, but this would be crossing the Rubicon. This would be wild.

I heared mixed things about whether it is legal or not - but possible, and this is the only thing I care for right now. Something we can do.

Did you read something about the time frame? I assumed it will be like this:

1. Pence takes the votes out of the envelopes and he keeps the votes from the fraudulent states in the envelopes.
2. Congress accepts the remaining votes, making Trump president-elect with 232 to 227/222 votes. (And obviously they will try to insist on the other votes.)

Now you're saying that he can throw them out after the objections. Any source for me to study? Where is my mistake?

You know what's not legal? Stealing an election. I don't care what the ramifications are, Pence needs to not certify the biden electors. No more bullshit. We need to fight back.

This is uncharted territory, and so everything is a bit murky. As the President of the Senate, VP Pence has jurisdiction over the proceedings and has a wide berth over what happens on the 6th. Many legal scholars agree that the President of the Senate has the authority to disregard the Electoral Count Act if he so chooses, and can dictate how the counting will be performed. As such, he would have the authority to go through all electoral votes, hear the contests, and choose to discard them afterward even without a majority vote from both chambers of Congress. The ECA is arguably unconstitutional and contradictory, which means that interpretation falls upon VP Pence (again, acting in his capacity as President of the Senate).

If you want to learn more, the best resource for this particular path is Maximus on Twitter. And while I fully support being suspicious of any random Twitter suggestion, this account is solid. He's a historian who regularly outlines our constitutional paths to victory and has contacts in several states. He doesn't exaggerate and doesn't make vague predictions. He also has a podcast hosted by RSBN talking about some of our options.

After that, Robert Barnes is your resident MAGA legal expert who is willing to tell you what you don't want to hear. He works directly with the Trump Team and personally drafted several of our lawsuits. He hosts a weekly podcast with Viva Frei on Sundays where they discuss the various developments of the week. Link. I started on Episode 35 and almost left because I didn't like the things they were saying. but eventually I decided that I'd rather hear the unpleasant truth. I hope these resources are a good start!

Suppose Pence did that, what would the Dems do, go to the Court? The same Court that has more or less serially refused to hear any case about the election to date?

I hate that it has come to this. We win that way, the next time a Dem holds the VP office then we will be virtually guaranteed dueling electors from battleground states every election regardless of any actual underlying controversy, just as a pretext to obviate potential EV's.

I don't know which path is the best path, or least bad path, but one of them must be take to prevent the fraud from succeeding.

States are read alphabetically, and if objected, 2 hour debate begins. Then resolved through votes..

Best option which Trump prefers is for battleground states to decertify Biden, and ascribe electoral votes to Trump. E-Z P-Z

Pence probably can't throw them out. I wish he could. More likely he can only force a debate in the House and Senate. This is what Bannon's guest, who served in Trump's admin, said on Dec. 31.

Powell said Trump needs to use the Executive Order. His liberal atty is saying he can't. She is saying he can. Trump doesn't know whom to believe.

If the People don't pressure the legislatures to do their duty, Trump might try the EO. Or he might not.

What I noticed: Nobody knows. There are different possibilities - and we will see something. Because Trump made clear that he will not concede. Yes, Pence can throw out votes. Either it is legal or he's crossing the Rubicon. We tried all other legal ways. This is about defending the republic. Especially if Trump has proof that China was part of the coup.

Btw take my up-Trump to counter your down-vote.

I assume Pence can throw the votes out (and choose to certify alternatives). Democrats would object but the only way to overturn that would be a court case, probably SCOTUS. Would they choose to not get involved again, or would they conveniently find that this is important enough to meddle in? Your guess is as good as mine.

I agree that Chattanooga downtown is preferable to Nashville or Ktown. If you're looking for a small-town feel, Cleveland is a great location, or Benton if you like rural. All are in relatively close proximity to the I-75 which can get you up and down the East Coast easily and the I-40 which runs East to West. Nice perk of TN: Mountains, 4 seasons and no state income tax. Transplanted here from the North 20 years ago. Great decision for us.

That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security

No, we're not antifa. We're Patriots.

And you're a fucking cuck, sitting in the corner moaning about hearts and minds while your country is getting fucked right in front of you.

If ye love wealth better than liberty, the tranquility of servitude than the animated contest of freedom - go home from us in peace. We ask not your counsels or arms. Read always does his own thing. This statement from these senators is great, what matters is what is said and done in the 6th. Say fuck Rand Paul if y'all want but I'll reserve judgement until the 6th Same here. If Rand betrays Trump it's just one more traitor on the list. It really doesn't change the trajectory of things, it'd just be disappointing to see him throw away an honest political career.

I don't even get how they are called a libertarian party. They want zero responsibility drug use and they talk about healthcare?!? They never attack public schools(they might have done this a bit but nowhere near enough) or welfare?!? They should be called leftertarians because they are barely (if any) farther right than the current republicans.

I NEED TN to get Marijuana legalized at least for medicinal purposes. I have tried every drug under the sun for my condition and current one gives me full body tremors, tinnitus and initially one hell of a panic attack and suicidal thoughts. Marijuana was the only medicine that could instantly flip me from being severely depressed and angry to calm and happy and most importantly it gave me hope. Pedes when you truly lose hope and cannot see a way out it's bad. But it's illegal, expensive and I need to get back on the job hunt (hence me trying yet another drug that has me all fucked up). I'm at the point where I'm going to have to leave this state, my son, my parents and friends to go to a state that will not make me a criminal for using medicine that I could grow in my back yard dirt cheap. TN is always flirting with the idea but I've been waiting since 2014 when I first fell apart to the point that I could no longer function in public.

They want to steal our right to exercise your and my voices in government by usurping our rights as citizens? Fuck them, they don't deserve to be called until we come and drag their traitorous asses from wherever they are hiding, slip the noose around their necks and lift them off the ground a couple feet.

Or does Pence call for a yes/no vote to accept the results of the entire EC, and that's when she votes No ?

And BRW, the National Archives does not have the Alternate Electors recorded on the website
